

Greece Believed To Plan Capture of All Allies In Territory

Queer Bulgar Campaign Designed to Push Them Across Border In Small Numbers to Facilitate Capture

ANGLO-FRENCH COMBINATION EFFECTED

Paris, Nov. 17. (By United Press)—All French, British and Serbians who may be driven out of Serbia into Greek territory will be disarmed and interned. Allied diplomats have suspected that was King Constantine's plan before. Today they are sure of it. It explains a clear delay of the Bulgar campaign.

The Bulgarians in Serbia apparently have made no attempt at a systematic advance. Detached bodies of troops have been operating independently. These bodies have been too large for more scouting parties but small enough for independent operations. They have attacked the allies from many points along the Greek frontier.

It is the opinion of French and British commanders that these attacks were not part of a plan for a smashing general victory. Their purpose is to drive the allies a few at a time into Greece so that they can be overpowered easily.

Athens, Nov. 17. (By United Press)—Overwhelming the Serbians north of Trilop, the Bulgarians entered Babuna Pass today. Small bodies of Serbs are still defending some of the heights, but the Serbian loss of the Pass exposes Trilop to speedy capture. Its inhabitants are fleeing southward.

With Trilop in their hands, the Bulgarians natural next objective will be Monastir, 25 miles south. Huge losses on both sides marked the Babuna Pass fighting. Strategically the position is one of the most important in southern Serbia. It has been bitterly contested.

Paris, Nov. 17.—Co-ordination of the allied military operations is believed to be the purpose of a conference here today between Premier Asquith, Munitions Minister Lloyd George, First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour, and Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey of England and members of the French cabinet. The members of the British war council were in communication with Premier Briand directly following their arrival in Paris. Today they were closeted a long time with the French government heads.

London, Nov. 17.—Frequent food riots in Berlin with threats from the authorities that the ring leaders will be shot if the disorders continue are reported today in Copenhagen dispatches. The smashing of shop windows and other wild acts are already daily occurrences in Berlin the reports say. Warnings of punishment have been placarded throughout the city by the minister of the interior. Besides death for the leaders of the riots, they are advised that they risk a ten year term of imprisonment.

BRITISH AND FRENCH FORCES FIGHTING AS ONE

Russian and Italian Armies Will Join Combination Soon

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Paris, Nov. 17.—The French and British fighting forces are virtually one tonight. Hitherto though allies, they have fought more or less independently. Henceforth they will be guided as a single force. Russia and Italy will join the combination as speedily as possible. The French and British arrangement was perfected today. Present at this first council today were Premier Asquith, Munitions Minister Lloyd George, First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour, Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey of England, and Premier Briand, War Minister Gallieni, Minister of Marines Lacaze and General Jeffery of France. The England group included three of the five members of the British inter-war circle of the cabinet. The French officials represented as nearly as the ministry's personnel permitted, the corresponding French posts.

JUDGE BELL SUSPENDS SENTENCE OF DEFENDANTS

Dick Lannan Convicted of "Skipping" Board Bill Goes Free

Yesterday afternoon sentence of two defendants was suspended by Judge Bell and one defendant was held in jail by Alderman Martin for the December term of court.

Dick Lannan whose home is in North Bend, but who for the past several months has been working about Clearfield was let out of jail on good behavior. Lannan was convicted about three weeks ago of skipping his board bill in February, 1914, but was just recently caught by the officials. Mrs. Young who at that time conducted a boarding house in the lower part of town brought the charge against the defendant. Sentence was suspended until the February term of court when he will again be brought before Judge Bell to be re-sentenced or pardoned. This is the third time in recent years that Lannan has been in jail for the same offense.

One of the most impetuous cases which have been brought before Alderman Martin is that of desertion and non-support charged against Clair Gross by Flora Freeman in behalf of Gross' wife, Eva Gross. The defendant was held in jail for appearance at the December term of court on account of the importance of the case.

Judge Bell suspended the sentence of James Rishel yesterday and put him under the supervision of Probation Officer Stock. He will also be brought before the court again in February.

SPECIAL MEETING TONIGHT

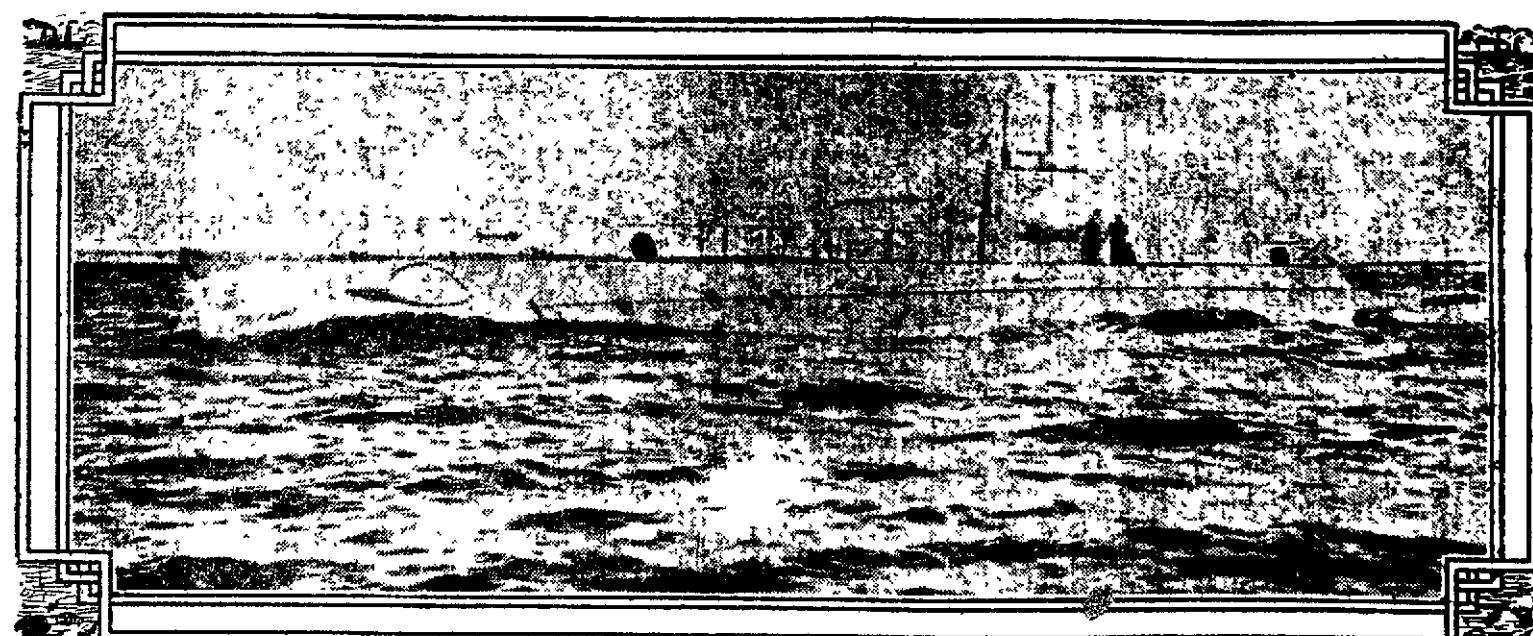

There will be a special meeting in the Salvation Army hall on Market street tonight when Staff Captain Campbell, of Philadelphia, will make an address.

Mrs. P. A. Patterson and son, Teddie, of Altoona, are visiting Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. George Black, on Daisy street. Mrs. Grover Graham, also a daughter of Mrs. Black's, is here with her children from Jersey Shore.

Rome, Nov. 17. (By United Press).—A German submarine stopped the Italian steamship Milano in the Mediterranean but spared the vessel because there were several German-Americans aboard. That the undersea boat was "German" was distinctly stated in the announcement today.

CLEARFIELD LOSES FIRST BASKETBALL GAME OF SEASON

Osceola Defeats Clearfield By Mistake Of Referee By Score Of 21-20

Local Team Out Plays Opponents in All Stages of Game—James Mitchell Elected Captain—"Y" Team to Go Up Against Tough Schedule.

Clearfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team opened their season last night when they played the strong Osceola five, which resulted in a victory for Osceola by a score of 21-20. The game really was won by Clearfield but on account of the referee not knowing the new rules they were deprived of four points which cost them the game.

Clearfield outplayed their opponents in every stage of the game and were playing at a great disadvantage, floor being very slippery and the baskets being 12 inch extension instead of the six inch which the Clearfield team is accustomed to. The Clearfield team played lings around the Osceola bunch in floor work but fell down on their shots on account of the baskets. Our team work was perfect.

During the first half Mr. Oberdick was fouled while shooting a basket which by rules would have counted two points for the basket one point for being fouled while shooting and also one point for shooting the foul, but instead of receiving four points they received the one point for shooting the foul which mistake cost the Clearfield team the victory.

James Mitchell, Jr., an old C. H. S. star, was elected captain of the team last evening. Mitchell has had a wide experience in basketball and other sports and the team showed good judgment in choosing such a man as captain.

The line up was as follows:
Wallace R. F. Mackin
Oberdick L. F. Thomas
Confer C. McCullum
Mitchell J. G. O'Brien
Canavan L. G. G. Mackin

Substitutions: Clearfield, Leitzinger for Wallace and Patterson for Mitchell. Osceola, Dugan for F. Mackin, 4, Leitzinger 1, F. Mackin 3, G. MacGoal from field, Wallace 2, Oberdick 3, G. Mackin 4, O'Brien 1, McCullum 1. Fouls, Clearfield, Oberdick 4 out of 13, Leitzinger 2 out of 6, Wallace 0 out of 3, Osceola, G. Mackin 3 out of 10. Referee, Allen. Timekeeper McCann. Scorer Dbereson. Score 21-20.

Mr. Oberdick the manager has scheduled some of the fastest teams in the state for this season and it will be the hardest schedule that any local team has had to go up against since the inauguration of basketball in this town. The schedule has not been completed as yet but will be by the first of the year. Some of the games which are pending are with the York and Harrisburg professionals and one of the colleges at Carlisle. The schedule as it now stands is as follows:

December 3 Tyronc at home.
January 21—Jersey Shore at home
January 28—Jersey Shore at Jersey Shore.
February 4—Susquehanna U. at home.
February 11—Altoona R. R. Y. M. C. A. at home.
February 16—Altoona R. R. Y. M. C. A. at Altoona.
March 8—Huntingdon Professionals at home.

Games with the Philadelphia and Pittsburg professionals are certain but the dates have not been fixed.

FORCES AT WORK TO ESTABLISH THE TARIFF BOARD

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Actively Advocating The Pro- ject For Months

Many Noted Business Men and Civic Workers Numbered in Supporters of Tariff Commission—Participation Attests Non-Partisan Character.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Powerful forces are at work on the plan and campaign for the establishment and maintenance of a tariff commission. On the theory that results are more easily obtained by having a direct mark to shoot at than along the line of generalities, the economic ranks are rapidly filling in support of the propaganda of the Tariff Commission league, formed a few weeks ago in Chicago and including in its official roster and list of active supporters many leading men and women of the country. Recently the chamber of commerce of the United States, which has been advocating actively for several months among the business organizations of the country the establishment of such a body of experts to handle the tariff subject, has studied the definite plan drawn by Howard H. Gross, president of the tariff commission league and finds it filling the requirements. President Fahey, of the first named organization, announces that the chief business organization of the United States was given general support to the principles involved in the measure proposed for introduction in congress by the Tariff Commission league.

This measure is in the form of a tentative bill providing for the appointment by the president of a commission of seven members, with tenure of office of seven years, having a fixed annual appropriation for the permanent of the commission, and the broadest field of operation and jurisdiction along the lines of investigation and research. According to the provisions of the bill no one political party shall have a majority on the commission, this necessitating the selection of at least one member from a third party. Another unique feature of the proposed measure is provision for representation on the commission of agriculture and industrial labor, this being the first time in the selection of a federal commission that these important elements in the American industrial structure have been represented.

Among the officials and active supporters of the Tariff Commission league, their participation attesting the non-partisan and general public welfare character of the movement, are Thomas A. Edison, James J. Hill, Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, G. W. Perkins, ex-Governor W. D. Hoar of Wisconsin, known as the "Father of the Dairy Industry," Judge C. B. Ames, ex-Supreme Justice of Oklahoma, Mrs. P. V. Pennypacker, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Miss Jane Adams, the famous civic worker, C. D. Lindsey, mayor of Dallas, Tex., Col. I. T. Pryor, of San Antonio, Tex., one of the leading agricultural, financial and business men of the southwest, E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe railway, John Mitchell, chairman of the Labor Commission of New York state, Burrigide D. Butler, president of the Agriculture Publisher's association, and many others.

HENRY BENDER IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR HARRISBURG

Bender and Companion Pin- ioned Under Car For More Than an Hour

Has Neck Badly Strained In Addition to Bruises and Lacerations—Car Skidded Causing it to Overturn And Roll Down Hill.

Henry Bender, son of Rev. H. R. Bender, of Second street, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday night near Newville, when the automobile in which he was riding, skidded and overturned pinioning him and his companion under the machine where they lay helpless for more than an hour until help arrived.

The accident happened at the crest of a treacherous hill about one mile from Newville, when they were on their way to their home in Harrisburg. When the machine reached the rise and started to round the curve it skidded in the mud and rolled over and over down the hill. When it stopped both Bender and his companion found that they were unable to extricate themselves. Bender, who was driving the machine, was caught beneath it, the side of the car resting on his neck and slowly choking him to death when help arrived. His companion, Roy Shaner, of Harrisburg, was caught across the legs and was powerless to move.

Finally when they had laid there for more than an hour and were thoroughly drenched by the pouring rain, another autoist came along and by mere chance discovered them. When the rescuer's machine breasted the hill his lights fell on the overturned machine but he thought it had been abandoned when he heard groans. The autoist with the aid of lighted matches found Bender and by means of his jack was raising the car from his neck when cries of pain from the other side stopped him. He finally managed to relieve the sufferings of both a trifle and bracing the car up, sped to Newville for aid.

Bender, who is general manager of the Union Sales company, of Harrisburg was the most seriously injured of the two. In addition to bruises and slight lacerations of the entire body his neck is badly strained. Word has been received that he is rapidly recovering from his injuries.

DISAPPEARANCE OF DR. SAMPSON REMAINS UNSOLVED

Story of Death Becomes Part of Lore of Historic Hills

Denver, Nov. 17.—(By United Press).—Swallowed up in the fastnesses of the Rocky Mountains and long ago given up as dead, the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Thornton R. Sampson, of Austin, Texas, has become today a part of the lore of these historic hills. Explanations of his accidentally having lost his way and perished from starvation have weakened under the most thorough searches.

The wierdest of many wierd stories is that Rev. Sampson was murdered by a hermit in the hills above Estes. The Texan himself, in one of his last letters to his wife, mentioned a "queer companion." Dr. Sampson was a friend of President Wilson's. Snow has fallen over the section of the range in which he was lost and experienced mountaineers hold out no hope that he will ever be found alive.

CONFERENCE OF STATE EMPLOYEES TO OPEN TUESDAY

State Engineers Society to Co- operate—Many Prominent Engineers to be Present

Industrial Exhibit to be Largest Ever Held—Public in General Invited to Sessions of Conference.

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—The Third Pennsylvania Welfare, Efficiency and Engineering conference will open on Tuesday morning in the hall of the house of representatives. The exhibit in connection with the conference will open tomorrow morning at the barns of the Harrisburg railways company. Governor Brumbaugh has called this conference of all the state departments who have to do in a responsible manner with the state engineering projects, natural resources and industry.

His purpose in asking the various state employees to gather at Harrisburg was primarily to enable them to become acquainted more fully with the work of their own departments and the several related departments of the state. It was also called for the purpose of more fully determining means whereby the departments can be of greater service to the public and can obtain in a larger measure its co-operative aid and support. For this reason the public generally has been invited to the sessions of the conference and a day has been set aside for speakers who are not connected with any state department to give their ideas of how this purpose may be accomplished.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted chiefly to hearing what the state has done and is attempting to do for the welfare of the citizens, while the last day, Thursday, will be given over almost entirely to addresses from outside speakers on subjects relating to the work of the various state departments co-operating in the conference.

Such a conference as this is unique in the history of Pennsylvania. For two years past conferences have been held but their scope has been limited chiefly to the work of one department, namely, the department of labor and industry. This year's conference makes a departure from the procedure which has been followed in the past and promises to bring together more closely the work of the various state departments which are related in a more or less degree with one another.

The Engineers' society of Pennsylvania has also agreed to co-operate and has undertaken the industrial exhibit which bids fair to be larger than any of those held during the past years. Inasmuch as prominent engineers of the state are expected to be present, their co-operation in this manner will prove an added attraction to the value of the meetings which will be held.

WORK ON C. H. BREEZE RAPIDLY TAKING SHAPE

Two Issues To Be Published This Year—Institute Will Get Out About December

Book Will Contain About 20
of Cuts—Between Six and
Hundred Copies to be Printed
Annual Notes to be Most Complete

The high school Breeze, the official publication of the High School, is rapidly taking shape, the cuts and articles which will be used in the book are all in the hands of the editor, Melvin Neff, and will be given to the printers for publication.

Contrary to the custom of former years there will be two issues of the Breeze put out this year, one during institute week and the other during commencement week. The class of '16 decided to publish a paper which would be of interest to the whole school and also one purely by the class. Up to this year the custom has been for the Seniors to put out a paper, the proceeds of which and the honor would go to that class, but the present seniors in view of the fact that a paper which would be of interest to all four classes, would be an improvement over former years decided to publish this sort of a paper during institute week and the other paper during the last week of the school.

There are many advantages to publishing the paper during institute week. At that time there are more than 500 teachers from all parts of the county in town who would be interested in the activities of the C. H. S. and also there is a greater advantage to the advertiser on account of the great number of strangers here and also that week being only a month while before Christmas. This B. S. paper would be an exceptionally good medium for the merchants to advertise their goods among the teachers. Considerable difficulty has been encountered by the boys in getting advertisements in spite of the fact that the price has been reduced to just one half of that of former years and the number of papers put out will be considerable more than ever before.

The book comprises cuts of the different classes and their officers, the H. S. band, foot ball team, Business staff, faculty, the present high school building, and the building now under construction. All phases of school life will be treated giving the parents and people in general some indication of the activities of the school. There will also be short write ups on foot ball games and a review of the season, several short stories written by members of the school and original jokes. The alumni notes will cover completely the classes of '10 and '15, giving the present position of all members, also the classmates men who have graduated in recent years.

The book will be printed on white paper with a dark brown cover with an attractive frontispiece. The cuts will be printed on light brown paper which will add color to the book and make a slight contrast with the cover. The Breeze will be ready for sale about December 15, the price of it will be 15 cents. Between 500 and eight hundred copies of 70 pages each will be printed.

According to the recent census made by the health officer there are 1616 dwelling-houses in the borough of Clearfield, including those of which number 856 are owned by their occupants and 756 which are rented.

DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE PARTY

Thirty-five of the friends of Mrs. William Van Allen, formerly Miss Nancy Miller gave a delightful surprise party for her last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miller on West Front street. Mrs. Van Allen, Miss Mary Mitchell, Ann Norris, Della Anderson and Lois Legoy played beautiful solos. Dancing and card playing furnished the amusement for the evening. Light refreshments were enjoyed by all.

An exchange says that a "widow woman with several children went away leaving the children behind." Help!

Italy's entry in to the Balkan conflict came too late to prevent the crucifixion of Serbia on the iron cross of Kultur.

Today's great thought: Man is what he makes of himself. Woman is what she makes of herself and a few other things.

What do you think about the proposed street lighting system? The argument properly belongs to you, and the Progress will gladly give space to your views.

In another column will be found an expression of appreciation of the establishment by the Woman's club of a rest room for out of town shoppers. It should be read with attention by local merchants who cater to out of town trade.

UNJUST CRITICISM

If Sheriff McCloskey is "severely censured" by citizens of Clearfield county for his action in sending deputies to Westover when the superintendent of the tannery there informed him that he feared that the striking tannery workers might become troublesome, we are strongly of the opinion that the citizens referred to by the DuBois Journal as "different parties" are not representative of an element which takes kindly to law and order.

It casts no blight upon labor that occasionally the authorities are called upon to prevent, by their presence on the ground, of headstrong acts on the part of members of a striking force. Human nature is very much the same, and in a given number of men, whether they are members of the boilermakers union or the gentleman's auxiliary of the ladies tailoring association, you will find hairbrained individuals who will commit acts of folly which are by no means approved by the more thoughtful of their fellows.

What, then, is more natural than that owners of valuable property should ask for protection, protection in this sense meaning nothing more than prevention of overt acts, against even the remote chance of folly on the part of individual members of a group of strikers?

In general, Sheriff McCloskey is not subject to criticism for sending his deputies wherever possible violation of law and order requires their presence. In the Westover case in particular, he acted wisely and in strict conformity with the duties of his office when he sent his chief deputy with two men to investigate the situation before posting other deputies about the premises of the tannery company during the night to see that nothing occurred which might reflect with discredit upon the strikers. Deputies might not have been needed, but it is no more of a reflection upon labor that they were sent to Westover than it is a reflection upon the entire citizenry of Clearfield that we employ a police force to preserve order and enforce the law.

LEADER OF HIS RACE

Had Booker T. Washington been a white man of equal gifts, he would inevitably have attracted less attention, and as he was a "bright mulatto" (thought with distinctly negroid features), his achievements can not be said to represent the possibilities of development within reach of the full-blooded negro. It remains to be said, however, that aside from any question of race this distinguished educator was a man of exceptional abilities as well as personal force and that he performed a great service to the people who looked to him as a leader and guide. His enlightened scheme of industrial education for the southern blacks was not original, but he developed it and made it his own. Its formal application began at Hampton institute, where Dr. Washington himself was educated, and it had been recommended years before.

But Booker T. Washington has been identified with and has represented the idea as has no other man. His devotion to it caused him to be criticized by lesser men and agitators of his own race, some of whom did not hesitate to characterize him as a "traitor" because he strove to interest his people, not in the phantom of "social equality" or the unsubstantial lure of the ballot, but in how to become industrially fit, how to cultivate thrift, acquire property and thus win the respect of the white people. He saw clearly that economic independence was the first and greatest need, and in preaching this doctrine both practically and theoretically he performed an enormously valuable service to his race in the southern states.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"Lucerne, toward which, rumor has it, all peace paths of the world now take their way, and upon which the eyes of many troubled millions have been turned in the keen hope that the bright mountain city may soon attain the enviable fame of sending forth the call to cease hostilities in the world's greatest war, is described in a statement issued today by the National Geographic Society. Prince von Buelow's visit to the city strengthened peace rumors which have been growing in assurance during weeks past, and centered peace activities in Lucerne. The war primer telling of Lucerne reads:

"Lucerne, the capital of the Canton of Lucerne, situated in an amphitheatre of mountains upon the exquisite Lake of Lucerne, is one of the most beautiful and most picturesque towns in Switzerland, and, in the land of the pilgrim's paradise, it has been one of the principal tourist centers. In tone, it is thoroughly cosmopolitan; for, during normal times, representatives of all the peoples of Europe and both Americas are continually passing through the place, to and from the famous St. Gotthard. More than 100,000 visitors were entertained in Lucerne each year in normal times, and, though a place of only 40,000 population, it possesses 70 hotels, many of them as pretentious as those to be found in New York and Paris. "Mountains wall the city, save where the wall is broken through by the torrent of the Reuse, which drains Lucerne Lake. The Pilatus range, Rigi, and the Alps of Uri and Engelberg frame the crystal waters at their feet. Lucerne is primarily a city of peace, because its support depends upon the good-will, the prosperity, and the leisure of nations productive and at peace with one another. The annual 100,000 visitors pay the running expenses of the place and furnish it with plenty of pocket money for incidental luxuries.

"Before the outbreak of the war, Lucerne was a resort patronized all the year round, by vacationists, those in search of winter sport, mountain climbers, by the infirm in need of bracing air and inspiring surroundings, and by the small army regularly bound for the passage of St. Gotthard's pass. The town, itself, is full of picturesque and historic values. The older part of the city is medieval, threaded by narrow, crooked streets and built up with ancient houses. Part of the old defenses are still standing, while the town-hall is a survival from the 16th century. In it, is now housed a museum rich in antiquities.

"Lucerne is conveniently situated for informal conferences between the warring nations, for it is neutral land almost in the heart of battle-torn Europe, and the only place equally accessible to all the larger combatants. In less than a day's time, representatives can gather here from London, Paris, Berlin, Rome and Vienna. More difficulty is in the way of the representatives sent from Petrograd, but, for all practical purposes, Lucerne is the placid center around which Europe's cyclonic storms of war are raging in widening circles. As the hub of trouble and destruction, it is a fitting point from which to send out the suggestions of peace and reconstruction."

LUTHERAN AID SOCIETY WILL HOLD SUPPER

The annual oyster supper of the Ladies Aid society of the Lutheran church will be held Friday, November 19 from 5 to 8 o'clock in the newly renovated basement of the church. This is the first supper that has been held since the basement has been improved and a good attendance is desired.

A much needed improvement in the basement was the installation of a modern kitchen, which is now under construction. The kitchen is about 20 feet in width and extends the whole width of the basement and contains all the latest accessories of a modern kitchen. It is built in such a manner as to insure quick service to the patrons and also make serving easier. New lighting and heating apparatus has also been installed which will make the room more comfortable.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Chambers, declared to be the best known soldier in the world. Private Chambers has a record such as few men ever have experienced. He was in one of the first Canadian expeditionary forces to go to the European war, and in the famous battle of Ypres lost his sight, but later recovered the use of one eye. Sharing honors with him at the banquet will be Hon. John Douglas Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries of Canada.

JOE HILL, I. W. W. POET TO BE SHOT FRIDAY MORNING

Agitation Launched To Save Condemned Man--Lives And Property Threatened

Date of Execution Postponed From October 1 on Account of Request of President Wilson--Board of Pardoners Refuse Commutation of Sentence.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 17.—Joseph Hillstrom—better known as Joe Hill, the I. W. W. poet—will face a firing squad at the penitentiary here early Friday morning. The popular impression prevails here that there is little or no chance for the success of the efforts being made to secure a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment or at least a postponement of the execution. At the penitentiary arrangements are already being made to carry the sentence into effect. The law of Utah gives a condemned murderer the choice between hanging or shooting as the method of execution. Hill chose shooting and in consequence he will meet death at the hands of six expert riflemen. The guns of three of the six will be loaded with ball cartridges and the other three with blank cartridges. In this manner none of the six will have an exact knowledge as to who are the real executioners.

The case of Hill has already attracted nation-wide attention. He was convicted of the murder of J. G. Morrison and Morrison's son on Jan. 10, 1914. The murders were committed, according to the evidence in the case, while Hill was in the act of robbing the Morrison grocery store.

Hill's case did not attract more than ordinary attention until efforts were launched to save him from execution by the Industrial Workers of the World, of which organization he had been a prominent member. The agitation to save the condemned man has included many threats against lives and property in Salt Lake City. On the eve of the first date set for execution—October 1—a large force of police in plain clothes and private detectives guarded public buildings and many homes as a result of anonymous threats to destroy property unless Hill was reprieved. For days incoming trains were watched and itinerants numbering more than fifty a day were arrested and given the alternative of leaving the city or going to jail. The same precautions, it is understood, are again being taken by the authorities on the eve of the execution.

Hill is a native of Sweden and it was through the intercessions of the Swedish minister at Washington that he secured his first reprieve. On the eve of the date fixed for the execution President Wilson, at the request of the Swedish minister, telegraphed Gov. Spry a request for a delay pending a further investigation of the case. The governor granted the request. At the end of the respite period Hill's application for commutation of sentence was denied by the Board of Pardoners and he was sentenced to be executed next Friday.

The Industrial Workers of the World, who have led the agitation in behalf of the condemned man, claim that the evidence on which he was convicted was not convincing. They claim that there was no positive identification of him as the murderer. It is further asserted by the I. W. W. that Hill would not have been likely to have attempted robbery as he had just come from the mine with $350 in his possession.

The victims of the double murder had fired upon their assailant before giving up their lives. The most damaging evidence against Hill was the fact that when arrested he had a bullet wound in his chest. At the trial of the case he declared that he would not explain how he received this wound, because to do that he would have to bring into the case the name of a prominent mine owner of Salt Lake.

Gov. Spry's letter to President Wilson, following the request for a respite, tells the other side of the story. In this letter Gov. Spry wrote:

"The undisputed records of the Hillstrom case show that he was convicted of a most revolting murder, that the evidence shows his guilt, and that he had a fair trial. His case has been more thoroughly investigated by the Board of Pardoners, consisting of the three Supreme Court Judges, the Attorney General and the Governor, than any similar case in the history of the state. We have found no reason whatever why clemency should be extended."

Popular feeling in Salt Lake City is that the I. W. W. and others who are trying to save Hillstrom will not be able to prove before Friday that he is guilty only of a chivalrous martyrdom in protecting the reputation of a woman.

Expert Advice For Auto Owners

When I open the throttle suddenly the motor misses fire badly and sometimes stops entirely. What is the matter?

You are feeding too much gasoline, which is drawn into the cylinders in an undivided state and is not readily explosive, thus causing the engine to miss fire and choke. If you will adjust your carburetor so that a greater proportion of air is mixed with the gasoline you will have no further trouble of this character.

What is the proper way to align the wheels of an automobile?

The proper method to align the wheels of an automobile is as follows: At the same distance above the ground as the center of the hub the measurement is taken across the width of the spread of the two front wheels from the inner side of the rims of each. When this measurement has been carefully checked the wheels are rotated to different positions and measurements taken at the same height. They should always be the same. When the wheels have been found to be true, as far as this measurement is concerned, similar measurements are made at the rear of the wheel. The distance across the wheels at the rear will be slightly larger than in front on account of the toe-in generally allowed. This amounts to one-fourth inch as a rule.

What effect does the practice of using the motor as a brake coming down a hill have on the mechanism of an automobile?

The use of the motor as a brake is generally conceded to have a more or less deleterious effect on the gears. The power through the gears is reversed since the car is now tending to drive the motor. Thus instead of having the stop down reduction we have a stop up, with consequently more surface pressure on the teeth, and hence more abrasion.

What per cent of grade, paved with asphalt, should a car which weighs 3000 pounds with passengers be able to climb on high?

The car should be able to take a short hill of 12 per cent on high gear, but on a long hill a 7 or 8 per cent grade would be the maximum.

How many miles should a car run before the engine main bearings need adjustment?

You should be able to run the car an average of 10,000 miles before the main bearings need adjustment, but if you have driven improperly with spark advanced too far, for instance, or attempted to take every hill on high gear and do various other things with the car which put extra strain on the crank shaft and bearings, it will sometimes happen that a set of bearings will wear out in 3,000 miles.

My car heats up considerably in the sun on a warm day it gets so hot that I can't get in. Is there anything I can do to drive the car, and on moderate driving it will boil. I would like to know whether there is anything that I could do to stop the heating up?

At some times the motor and parts must have become so hot that the inside surface of the radiator hose collapsed, and this undoubtedly is obstructing the passage of water on the top.

It is suggested, therefore, that you remove the radiator hoses and examine them, and if necessary install new ones, being sure that they are not kinked.

There is also a possibility of the radiator coils having become partially stopped on account of the sediment which was undoubtedly distributed to the coils by the steam generated. This might have clogged the coils. If this is the case the radiator should be filled with water, then draw off about one quart and dissolve in this the maximum of concentrated lye which the water will carry. This should be poured into the radiator and the motor run for several moments until the cooling system has become thoroughly heated. The water is then drained off and thoroughly flushed out with several fillings of fresh water, care being taken not to get any of the water in which the lye is dissolved on external parts.

At low speeds there is a grinding sound in my rear axle, seemingly caused by the gears. How can this be remedied?

The cause is probably a poor adjustment between the bevel drive pinion and the crown gear, and this can be remedied by simply adjusting the mesh between these gears. This adjustment can be made by removing a small hand hole plate located at the rear of the propeller shaft and by turning a screw adjustment inside to the right or left, after or looser adjustment as desired.

Is it good practice to lap in pistons, using ground glass or nonmagnetic valve grinding compound?

Grinding compound is too coarse an abrasive for use in piston lapping. Ground glass mixed with a solution of benzene and lubricating oil is better.

Expert Advice For
Auto Owners

CURWENSVILLE

When I open the throttle suddenly the motor seems to fire badly and comes to a stop. What is the matter?

You are feeding too much gasoline, which is drawn into the cylinders in an undivided state and is not readily explosive, thus causing the engine to miss and choke. If you will adjust your carburetor so that a greater proportion of air is mixed with the gasoline you will have no further trouble of this character.

What is the proper way to align the wheels of an automobile?

The proper method to align the wheels of an automobile is as follows: At the same distance above the ground as the center of the hub the measurement is taken across the width of the spread of the two front wheels from the inner side of the rims of each. When this measurement has been carefully checked the wheels are rotated to different positions and measurements taken at the same height. They should always be the same. When the wheels have been found to be true, as far as this measurement is concerned, similar measurements are made at the rear of the wheel. The distance across the wheels at the rear will be slightly larger than in front on account of the toe-in generally allowed. This amounts to one-fourth inch as a rule.

What effect does the practice of using the motor as a brake coming down a hill have on the mechanism of an automobile?

The use of the motor as a brake is generally conceded to have a more or less deleterious effect on the gears. The power through the gears is reversed since the car is now tending to drive the motor. Thus instead of having the step down reduction we have a step up, with consequently more surface pressure on the teeth, and hence more abrasion.

What per cent of grade, paved with asphalt, should a car which weighs 3,000 pounds with passengers be able to climb on high?

The car should be able to take a short hill of 12 per cent on high gear, but on a long hill a 7 or 8 per cent grade would be the maximum.

How many miles should a car run before the engine main bearings need adjustment?

You should be able to run the car an average of 10,000 miles before the main bearings need adjustment, but if you have driven improperly with spark advanced too far, for instance, or attempted to take every hill on high gear and to various other things with the engine which put extra strain on the crank shaft and bearings, it will sometimes happen that a set of bearings will wear out in 2,000 miles.

My car heats up considerably—in fact, in a very short time it gets so hot that I have to leave it. Is there anything I can do to prevent this?

At some times the motor and parts must have become so hot that the inside surface of the radiator hose collapsed, and this undoubtedly is obstructing the passage of water on the way.

It is suggested, therefore, that you remove the radiator hoses and examine them, and if necessary, install new ones, being sure that they are not kinked.

There is also a possibility of the radiator cells having become partially clogged on account of the sediment which was undoubtedly distributed to the cells by the steam generated. This might have clogged the cells. If this is the case the radiator should be filled with water, then draw off about one quart and dissolve in this the maximum of concentrated lye which the water will carry. This should be poured into the radiator and the motor run for several moments until the cooling system has become thoroughly heated. The water is then drained off and thoroughly flushed out with several fillings of fresh water, care being taken not to get any of the water in which the lye is dissolved on external parts.

At low speeds there is a grinding sound in my rear axle, seemingly caused by the gears. How can this be remedied?

The cause is probably a poor adjustment between the bevel drive pinion and the crown gear, and this can be remedied by simply adjusting the mesh between these gears. This adjustment can be made by removing the small hand hole plate located at the rear end of the propeller shaft housing and by turning a screw adjustment on the inside to the right or left to secure a tighter or looser adjustment of the bevel pinion as desired.

Is it good practice to lap in pistons, using ground glass or nonmagnetic valve grinding compound?

Grinding compound is too coarse an abrasive for use in piston lapping. Ground glass mixed with a solution of kerosene and lubricating oil is better.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving and Some Clearfield People Know How to Save It

Many Clearfield people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Clearfield citizen's recommendation.

Levis Kelly, 904 S. Fourth street, Clearfield says: "I know from experience that Doan's Kidney pills are a medicine of merit. I used them for backache and kidney weakness and got relief. Some time later I again used Doan's Kidney pills and they relieved lameness in my back and regulated the action of my kidneys." Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kelly had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Clearfield R. F. D. No. 2

Good evening! Are you getting ready to be thankful?

We see a Paradise resident has "Old Glory" floating over his pigpen; he must be one of the hyphenated kind of Americans.

No, Cleo, don't think it is for style that men put pants on their hunting dogs; neither is it new, as we know of men who have been doing it for years; and if those who don't, could only be stripped naked and be made to run through the brush, briars and thorns a few hours they would soon get something on their dogs to protect them.

Game evidently is scarce as we have seen dozens of hunters and to date have seen a pheasant and a squirrel that had been bogged.

We got that long-delayed piece of pumpkin pie a few days ago.

Mans Read has just threshed his wheat; had about 230 bushels. Still has his oats and barley to thresh.

Rev. Long started revival services at Mt. Joy church on Sunday evening; meetings every night for at least two weeks.

Rev. LePage is also conducting a revival service in the Goshen church; commenced on the 7th. Rev. J. E. Gearhart preached for him last Sunday at 10:30, as he had to be on a different part of the circuit, and the writer did his best in the evening; James Knight was with us and led the singing and we had an enthusiastic and, we hope, profitable meeting.

Editor Progress: It seems to good to be true that there is at last a place in Clearfield for a tired woman to rest and get lunch without feeling they are not wanted there. The rest room and lunch are fine and makes we out-of-town women want to go to Clearfield to do our shopping. It has already cheated the city department stores out of a big order from me and there will be more to follow. I should like to send a contribution, if I knew where to send it. You were kind enough to print my letters wanting a rest room, perhaps you will be kind enough to tell us where we could send or leave money for it.

DISAPPEARANCE OF YOUNG DOCTOR IS STILL A MYSTERY

Denver, Nov. 17.—(By United Press.)—The case of the disappearance of young Dr. S. C. Miller from his home at Meade, Colo., September 6, is shelved as another unsolved mystery in Colorado today. He kissed his wife and baby goodby and said he was going to make a professional call. He did not return.

Keep Your Name In Print.

By BREEN.

A certain wise man once said: "Keep your name in print. Have something nice said about you, if possible. But—keep your name in print."

The man who said this was unwittingly an advertising genius. He knew the value of advertising.

The power of advertising cannot be measured. It is tremendous. Successful men and men who are trying to become successful are giving it more attention than ever.

Have you given advertising the attention it deserves? If you haven't, get busy.

Christmas Shopping

By J. A. COLEMAN.

The above slogan in the hands of an astute business man, changed the whole practice of Christmas shopping and stimulated holiday business as nothing else could have done. This man, with the nerve of a Barnum and the judgement of a Wanamaker, grabbed the thought from the public mind and put it into big Black Type where "He who runs may read"—in the newspaper! He backed a popular conviction with his coin and advertised the universal belief that it would be better for everyone concerned if the inevitable Christmas purchases were made at once while stocks were fresh and new and the choice was wide and ample.

The result not only paid the advertiser as it always does—but the whole country profited beside.

This slogan has since slipped into practical use in every corner of commercial America. Excepting perhaps its fellow slogan, "Safety First," which reduced the accident death rate enormously, it has done more good in the world than any business phrase ever coined. It has been the means of discontinuing the time honored practice among large metropolitan department and specialty stores of keeping open in the evening a week or two preceding Christmas Eve. It has enabled manufacturers to prepare their goods and fill orders far enough in advance to insure clear store rooms long before the Yuletide candles were lighted. It prevented the disappointment of millions of Christmas shoppers who were wont in times past to wait for the more attractive novelties which turned up at the last moment. And not the least important, it saved the heartaches of neglected ones who leant upon the broken reed of mere man's thoughtlessness.

That phrase, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," was instantly taken up and flashed before the eyes of the world through the medium of its newspaper. Just as every other worth while thing is told this nation of readers by the ever present, constant, reliable, all-knowing morning, evening, weekly or Sunday newspaper. Nothing the world does is done without ITS knowledge, nothing you want the world to know can be made known without its aid. Almost any national manufacturer will tell you that most of his fame and profit were the product of newspaper advertising. No newspaper advertiser who kept it up wisely ever lost money.

The newspaper pays the advertiser. The latter merely invests in business publicity. The cost of advertising is like a phantom Zeppelin—it never lights anywhere. It is a bugaboo made of thin air and a yellow streak. The common supposition that advertising expense is levied upon the consumer is likewise a fallacy. The fact of the matter is that the non-advertiser pays for it out of the business he loses to competitors who do advertise.

Advertising doubles output, halves overhead, divides selling cost and, by making two customers buy where ONLY ONE BOUGHT BEFORE, it creates a hundred per cent. increase in profit—out of which any business man can afford to pay for his own advertising.

MORAL FOR MERCHANTS: Advertise in the Progress and do your Christmas Business early.

PRIVATE LAND BANKS CONDEMNED BY CONGRESSMAN

Congressman Morgan Writes Book On "Land Credits or A Plea For The Farmers"

Object of New Law Should be to Obtain Adequate Credit and Low Rate of Interest for Farmers—New Law Authorizes Banks to do Business With Insufficient Capital.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Congressman Dick T. Morgan, of Oklahoma, has written a book entitled, "Land Credits; a Plea for the American Farmer," which will be issued in a few days from the press of Thomas Y. Crowell company, New York.

In this work, the Oklahoma congressman vigorously condemns the system of private, profit-sharing land banks recommended by the commission which went abroad to study rural credits, and by the sub-committees of the United States congress on rural

Advertise in The Progress.

Advertising Surely Pays.

By BREEN.

The biggest business enterprises in this country were built upon advertising. None will deny that. Newspaper advertising is the most potent of all. The money that is spent annually in the newspapers of the United States is enormous.

Enormous as it is, the return is tenfold. And yet one occasionally will find some self sufficient business man who will declare he doesn't need advertising.

Every man in every business needs advertising. Some need it more than others. It is nonsense to say that a certain article sells itself.

FERNS SHOULD BE PLACED IN STRONG SUNLIGHT

Washington, Nov. 17.—(By United Press.)—Housewives who obtain ferns from the florist for indoor culture should place them in a strong light, although they will do well without sunlight. They should be kept moist at all times, but watered sparingly. Most fern difficulties arise either from keeping the plants soaked or permitting them to get too dry. When the fern is in a jardiniere, it is especially difficult to avoid over-watering. In spring and summer, ferns require three times the amount of water that they do in the fall and winter.

Greece Believed To Plan Capture of All Allies In Territory

Queer Bulgar Campaign Designed to Push Them Across Border In Small Numbers to Facilitate Capture

ANGLO-FRENCH COMBINATION EFFECTED

Paris, Nov. 17. (By United Press)—All French, British and Serbians who may be driven out of Serbia into Greek territory will be disarmed and interned. Allied diplomats have suspected that was King Constantine's plan before. Today they are sure of it. It explains a clear delay of the Bulgar campaign.

The Bulgarians in Serbia apparently have made no attempt at a systematic advance. Detached bodies of troops have been operating independently. These bodies have been too large for more scouting parties but small enough for independent operations. They have attacked the allies from many points along the Greek frontier.

It is the opinion of French and British commanders that these attacks were not part of a plan for a smashing general victory. Their purpose is to drive the allies a few at a time into Greece so that they can be overpowered easily.

Athens, Nov. 17. (By United Press)—Overwhelming the Serbians north of Trilop, the Bulgarians entered Babuna Pass today. Small bodies of Serbs are still defending some of the heights, but the Serbian loss of the Pass exposes Trilop to speedy capture. Its inhabitants are fleeing southward.

With Trilop in their hands, the Bulgarians natural next objective will be Monastir, 25 miles south. Huge losses on both sides marked the Babuna Pass fighting. Strategically the position is one of the most important in southern Serbia. It has been bitterly contested.

Paris, Nov. 17.—Co-ordination of the allied military operations is believed to be the purpose of a conference here today between Premier Asquith, Munitions Minister Lloyd George, First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour, and Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey of England and members of the French cabinet. The members of the British war council were in communication with Premier Briand directly following their arrival in Paris. Today they were closeted a long time with the French government heads.

London, Nov. 17.—Frequent food riots in Berlin with threats from the authorities that the ring leaders will be shot if the disorders continue are reported today in Copenhagen dispatches. The smashing of shop windows and other wild acts are already daily occurrences in Berlin the reports say. Warnings of punishment have been placarded throughout the city by the minister of the interior. Besides death for the leaders of the riots, they are advised that they risk a ten year term of imprisonment.

BRITISH AND FRENCH FORCES FIGHTING AS ONE

Russian and Italian Armies Will Join Combination Soon

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Paris, Nov. 17.—The French and British fighting forces are virtually one tonight. Hitherto though allies, they have fought more or less independently. Henceforth they will be guided as a single force. Russia and Italy will join the combination as speedily as possible. The French and British arrangement was perfected today. Present at this first council today were Premier Asquith, Munitions Minister Lloyd George, First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour, Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey of England, and Premier Briand, War Minister Gallieni, Minister of Marines Lacaze and General Jeffery of France. The England group included three of the five members of the British inter-war circle of the cabinet. The French officials represented as nearly as the ministry's personnel permitted, the corresponding French posts.

JUDGE BELL SUSPENDS SENTENCE OF DEFENDANTS

Dick Lannan Convicted of "Skipping" Board Bill Goes Free

Yesterday afternoon sentence of two defendants was suspended by Judge Bell and one defendant was held in jail by Alderman Martin for the December term of court.

Dick Lannan whose home is in North Bend, but who for the past several months has been working about Clearfield was let out of jail on good behavior. Lannan was convicted about three weeks ago of skipping his board bill in February, 1914, but was just recently caught by the officials. Mrs. Young who at that time conducted a boarding house in the lower part of town brought the charge against the defendant. Sentence was suspended until the February term of court when he will again be brought before Judge Bell to be re-sentenced or pardoned. This is the third time in recent years that Lannan has been in jail for the same offense.

One of the most impetuous cases which have been brought before Alderman Martin is that of desertion and non-support charged against Clair Gross by Flora Freeman in behalf of Gross' wife, Eva Gross. The defendant was held in jail for appearance at the December term of court on account of the importance of the case.

Judge Bell suspended the sentence of James Rishel yesterday and put him under the supervision of Probation Officer Stock. He will also be brought before the court again in February.

SPECIAL MEETING TONIGHT

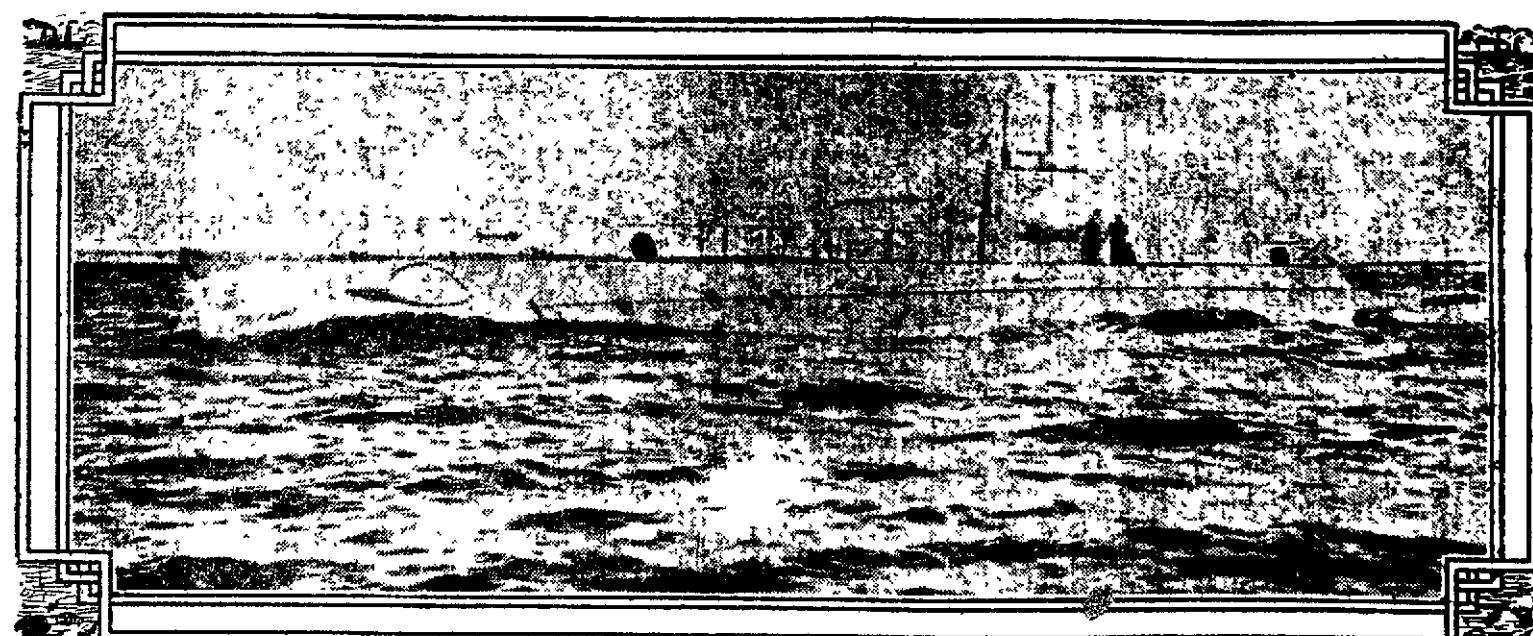

There will be a special meeting in the Salvation Army hall on Market street tonight when Staff Captain Campbell, of Philadelphia, will make an address.

Mrs. P. A. Patterson and son, Teddie, of Altoona, are visiting Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. George Black, on Daisy street. Mrs. Grover Graham, also a daughter of Mrs. Black's, is here with her children from Jersey Shore.

CLEARFIELD LOSES FIRST BASKETBALL GAME OF SEASON

Osceola Defeats Clearfield By Mistake Of Referee By Score Of 21-20

Local Team Out Plays Opponents in All Stages of Game—James Mitchell Elected Captain—"Y" Team to Go Up Against Tough Schedule.

Clearfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team opened their season last night when they played the strong Osceola five, which resulted in a victory for Osceola by a score of 21-20. The game really was won by Clearfield but on account of the referee not knowing the new rules they were deprived of four points which cost them the game.

Clearfield outplayed their opponents in every stage of the game and were playing at a great disadvantage, floor being very slippery and the baskets being 12 inch extension instead of the six inch which the Clearfield team is accustomed to. The Clearfield team played lugs around the Osceola bunch in floor work but fell down on their shots on account of the baskets. Our team work was perfect.

During the first half Mr. Oberdick was fouled while shooting a basket which by rules would have counted two points for the basket one point for being fouled while shooting and also one point for shooting the foul, but instead of receiving four points they received the one point for shooting the foul which mistake cost the Clearfield team the victory.

James Mitchell, Jr., an old C. H. S. star, was elected captain of the team last evening. Mitchell has had a wide experience in basketball and other sports and the team showed good judgment in choosing such a man as captain.

The line up was as follows:
Wallace R. F. Mackin
Oberdick L. F. Thomas
Confer C. McCullum
Mitchell J. G. O'Brien
Canavan L. G. G. Mackin

Substitutions: Clearfield, Leitzinger for Wallace and Paterson for Mitchell. Osceola, Dugan for F. Mackin, 4, Leitzinger 1, F. Mackin 3, G. MacGoal from field, Wallace 2, Oberdick 3, G. Mackin 4, O'Brien 1, McCullum 1. Fouls, Clearfield, Oberdick 4 out of 13, Leitzinger 2 out of 6, Wallace 0 out of 3, Osceola, G. Mackin 3 out of 10. Referee, Allen. Timekeeper McCann. Scorer Dbereson. Score 21-20.

Mr. Oberdick the manager has scheduled some of the fastest teams in the state for this season and it will be the hardest schedule that any local team has had to go up against since the inauguration of basketball in this town. The schedule has not been completed as yet but will be by the first of the year. Some of the games which are pending are with the York and Harrisburg professionals and one of the colleges at Carlisle. The schedule as it now stands is as follows:

December 3 Tyronc at home.
January 21—Jersey Shore at home
January 28—Jersey Shore at Jersey Shore.
February 4—Susquehanna U. at home.
February 11—Altoona R. R. Y. M. C. A. at home.
February 16—Altoona R. R. Y. M. C. A. at Altoona.
March 8—Huntingdon Professionals at home.

Games with the Philadelphia and Pittsburg professionals are certain but the dates have not been fixed.

FORCES AT WORK TO ESTABLISH THE TARIFF BOARD

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Actively Advocating The Pro- ject For Months

Many Noted Business Men and Civic Workers Numbered in Supporters of Tariff Commission—Participation Attests Non-Partisan Character.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Powerful forces are at work on the plan and campaign for the establishment and maintenance of a tariff commission. On the theory that results are more easily obtained by having a direct mark to shoot at than along the line of generalities, the economic ranks are rapidly filling in support of the propaganda of the Tariff Commission league, formed a few weeks ago in Chicago and including in its official roster and list of active supporters many leading men and women of the country. Recently the chamber of commerce of the United States, which has been advocating actively for several months among the business organizations of the country the establishment of such a body of experts to handle the tariff subject, has studied the definite plan drawn by Howard H. Gross, president of the tariff commission league and finds it filling the requirements. President Fahey, of the first named organization, announces that the chief business organization of the United States was given general support to the principles involved in the measure proposed for introduction in congress by the Tariff Commission league.

This measure is in the form of a tentative bill providing for the appointment by the president of a commission of seven members, with tenure of office of seven years, having a fixed annual appropriation for the permanent of the commission, and the broadest field of operation and jurisdiction along the lines of investigation and research. According to the provisions of the bill no one political party shall have a majority on the commission, this necessitating the selection of at least one member from a third party. Another unique feature of the proposed measure is provision for representation on the commission of agriculture and industrial labor, this being the first time in the selection of a federal commission that these important elements in the American industrial structure have been represented.

Among the officials and active supporters of the Tariff Commission league, their participation attesting the non-partisan and general public welfare character of the movement, are Thomas A. Edison, James J. Hill, Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, G. W. Perkins, ex-Governor W. D. Hoar of Wisconsin, known as the "Father of the Dairy Industry," Judge C. B. Ames, ex-Supreme Justice of Oklahoma, Mrs. P. V. Pennypacker, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Miss Jane Addams, the famous civic worker, C. D. Lindsey, mayor of Dallas, Tex., Col. I. T. Pryor, of San Antonio, Tex., one of the leading agricultural, financial and business men of the southwest, E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe railway, John Mitchell, chairman of the Labor Commission of New York state, Burrage D. Butler, president of the Agriculture Publisher's association, and many others.

The Altoona team won the championship of the Central Pennsylvania league last year.

HENRY BENDER IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR HARRISBURG

Bender and Companion Pin- ioned Under Car For More Than an Hour

Has Neck Badly Strained In Addition to Bruises and Lacerations—Car Skidded Causing it to Overturn And Roll Down Hill.

Henry Bender, son of Rev. H. R. Bender, of Second street, was seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday night near Newville, when the automobile in which he was riding, skidded and overturned pinioning him and his companion under the machine where they lay helpless for more than an hour until help arrived.

The accident happened at the crest of a treacherous hill about one mile from Newville, when they were on their way to their home in Harrisburg. When the machine reached the rise and started to round the curve it skidded in the mud and rolled over and over down the hill. When it stopped both Bender and his companion found that they were unable to extricate themselves. Bender, who was driving the machine, was caught beneath it, the side of the car resting on his neck and slowly choking him to death when help arrived. His companion, Roy Shaner, of Harrisburg, was caught across the legs and was powerless to move.

Finally when they had laid there for more than an hour and were thoroughly drenched by the pouring rain, another autoist came along and by mere chance discovered them. When the rescuer's machine breasted the hill his lights fell on the overturned machine but he thought it had been abandoned when he heard groans. The autoist with the aid of lighted matches found Bender and by means of his jack was raising the car from his neck when cries of pain from the other side stopped him. He finally managed to relieve the sufferings of both a trifle and bracing the car up, sped to Newville for aid.

Bender, who is general manager of the Union Sales company, of Harrisburg was the most seriously injured of the two. In addition to bruises and slight lacerations of the entire body his neck is badly strained. Word has been received that he is rapidly recovering from his injuries.

DISAPPEARANCE OF DR. SAMPSON REMAINS UNSOLVED

Story of Death Becomes Part of Lore of Historic Hills

Denver, Nov. 17.—(By United Press).—Swallowed up in the fastnesses of the Rocky Mountains and long ago given up as dead, the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Thornton R. Sampson, of Austin, Texas, has become today a part of the lore of these historic hills. Explanations of his accidentally having lost his way and perished from starvation have weakened under the most thorough searches.

The wierdest of many wierd stories is that Rev. Sampson was murdered by a hermit in the hills above Estes. The Texan himself, in one of his last letters to his wife, mentioned a "queer companion." Dr. Sampson was a friend of President Wilson's. Snow has fallen over the section of the range in which he was lost and experienced mountaineers hold out no hope that he will ever be found alive.

CONFERENCE OF STATE EMPLOYEES TO OPEN TUESDAY

State Engineers Society to Co- operate—Many Prominent Engineers to be Present

Industrial Exhibit to be Largest Ever Held—Public in General Invited to Sessions of Conference.

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—The Third Pennsylvania Welfare, Efficiency and Engineering conference will open on Tuesday morning in the hall of the house of representatives. The exhibit in connection with the conference will open tomorrow morning at the barns of the Harrisburg railways company. Governor Brumbaugh has called this conference of all the state departments who have to do in a responsible manner with the state engineering projects, natural resources and industry.

His purpose in asking the various state employees to gather at Harrisburg was primarily to enable them to become acquainted more fully with the work of their own departments and the several related departments of the state. It was also called for the purpose of more fully determining means whereby the departments can be of greater service to the public and can obtain in a larger measure its co-operative aid and support. For this reason the public generally has been invited to the sessions of the conference and a day has been set aside for speakers who are not connected with any state department to give their ideas of how this purpose may be accomplished.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted chiefly to hearing what the state has done and is attempting to do for the welfare of the citizens, while the last day, Thursday, will be given over almost entirely to addresses from outside speakers on subjects relating to the work of the various state departments co-operating in the conference.

Such a conference as this is unique in the history of Pennsylvania. For two years past conferences have been held but their scope has been limited chiefly to the work of one department, namely, the department of labor and industry. This year's conference makes a departure from the procedure which has been followed in the past and promises to bring together more closely the work of the various state departments which are related in a more or less degree with one another.

The Engineers' society of Pennsylvania has also agreed to co-operate and has undertaken the industrial exhibit which bids fair to be larger than any of those held during the past years. Inasmuch as prominent engineers of the state are expected to be present, their co-operation in this manner will prove an added attraction to the value of the meetings which will be held.

WORK ON C. H. BREEZE RAPIDLY TAKING SHAPE

Two Issues To Be Put This Year—Institute Will Get Out About December

Book Will Contain About 20
of Cuts—Between Six and
Hundred Copies to be Printed
Annual Notes to be Most Complete

The high school Breeze, the official publication of the High School, is rapidly taking shape, the cuts and articles which will be used in the book are all in the hands of the editor, Melvin Naff, and will begin to be given to the printers for publication.

Contrary to the custom of former years there will be two issues of the Breeze put out this year, one during institute week and the other during commencement week. The class of '16 decided to publish a paper which would be of interest to the whole school and also one purely by the class. Up to this year the custom has been for the Seniors to put out a paper, the proceeds of which and the honor would go to that class, but the present seniors in view of the fact that a paper which would be of interest to all four classes, would be an improvement over former years decided to publish this sort of a paper during institute week and the other paper during the last week of the school.

There are many advantages to publishing the paper during institute week. At that time there are more than 500 teachers from all parts of the county in town who would be interested in the activities of the C. H. S. and also there is a greater advantage to the advertiser on account of the great number of strangers here and also that week being only a month while before Christmas. This B. S. paper would be an exceptionally good medium for the merchants to advertise their goods among the teachers. Considerable difficulty has been encountered by the boys in getting advertisements in spite of the fact that the price has been reduced to just one half of that of former years and the number of papers put out will be considerable more than ever before.

The book comprises cuts of the different classes and their officers, the H. S. band, foot ball team, Business staff, faculty, the present high school building, and the building now under construction. All phases of school life will be treated giving the parents and people in general some indication of the activities of the school. There will also be short write ups on foot ball games and a review of the season, several short stories written by members of the school and original jokes. The alumni notes will cover completely the classes of '10 and '15, giving the present position of all members, also the classmates who have graduated in recent years.

The book will be printed on white paper with a dark brown cover with an attractive frontispiece. The cuts will be printed on light brown paper which will add color to the book and make a slight contrast with the cover. The Breeze will be ready for sale about December 15, the price of it will be 15 cents. Between six and eight hundred copies of 70 pages each will be printed.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 17, 1915

An exchange says that a "widow woman with several children went away leaving the children behind." Help!

Italy's entry in to the Balkan conflict came too late to prevent the crucifixion of Serbia on the iron cross of Kultur.

Today's great thought: Man is what he makes of himself. Woman is what she makes of herself and a few other things.

What do you think about the proposed street lighting system? The argument properly belongs to you, and the Progress will gladly give space to your views.

In another column will be found an expression of appreciation of the establishment by the Woman's club of a rest room for out of town shoppers. It should be read with attention by local merchants who cater to out of town trade.

UNJUST CRITICISM

If Sheriff McCloskey is "severely censured" by citizens of Clearfield county for his action in sending deputies to Westover when the superintendent of the tannery there informed him that he feared that the striking tannery workers might become troublesome, we are strongly of the opinion that the citizens referred to by the DuBois Journal as "different parties" are not representative of an element which takes kindly to law and order.

It casts no blight upon labor that occasionally the authorities are called upon to prevent, by their presence on the ground, of headstrong acts on the part of members of a striking force. Human nature is very much the same, and in a given number of men, whether they are members of the boilermakers union or the gentleman's auxiliary of the ladies tailoring association, you will find hairbrained individuals who will commit acts of folly which are by no means approved by the more thoughtful of their fellows.

What, then, is more natural than that owners of valuable property should ask for protection, protection in this sense meaning nothing more than prevention of overt acts, against even the remote chance of folly on the part of individual members of a group of strikers?

In general, Sheriff McCloskey is not subject to criticism for sending his deputies wherever possible violation of law and order requires their presence. In the Westover case in particular, he acted wisely and in strict conformity with the duties of his office when he sent his chief deputy with two men to investigate the situation before posting other deputies about the premises of the tannery company during the night to see that nothing occurred which might reflect with discredit upon the strikers. Deputies might not have been needed, but it is no more of a reflection upon labor that they were sent to Westover than it is a reflection upon the entire citizenry of Clearfield that we employ a police force to preserve order and enforce the law.

LEADER OF HIS RACE

Had Booker T. Washington been a white man of equal gifts, he would inevitably have attracted less attention, and as he was a "bright mulatto" (thought with distinctly negroid features), his achievements can not be said to represent the possibilities of development within reach of the full-blooded negro. It remains to be said, however, that aside from any question of race this distinguished educator was a man of exceptional abilities as well as personal force and that he performed a great service to the people who looked to him as a leader and guide. His enlightened scheme of industrial education for the southern blacks was not original, but he developed it and made it his own. Its formal application began at Hampton Institute, where Dr. Washington himself was educated, and it had been recommended years before.

But Booker T. Washington has been identified with and has represented the idea as has no other man. His devotion to it caused him to be criticized by lesser men and agitators of his own race, some of whom did not hesitate to characterize him as a "traitor" because he strove to interest his people, not in the phantom of "social equality" or the unsubstantial lure of the ballot, but in how to become industrially fit, how to cultivate thrift, acquire property and thus win the respect of the white people. He saw clearly that economic independence was the first and greatest need, and in preaching this doctrine both practically and theoretically he performed an enormously valuable service to his race in the southern states.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"Lucerne, toward which, rumor has it, all peace paths of the world now take their way, and upon which the eyes of many troubled millions have been turned in the keen hope that the bright mountain city may soon attain the enviable fame of sending forth the call to cease hostilities in the world's greatest war, is described in a statement issued today by the National Geographic Society. Prince von Buelow's visit to the city strengthened peace rumors which have been growing in assurance during weeks past, and centered peace activities in Lucerne. The war primer telling of Lucerne reads:

"Lucerne, the capital of the Canton of Lucerne, situated in an amphitheatre of mountains upon the exquisite Lake of Lucerne, is one of the most beautiful and most picturesque towns in Switzerland, and, in the land of the pilgrim's paradise, it has been one of the principal tourist centers. In tone, it is thoroughly cosmopolitan; for, during normal times, representatives of all the peoples of Europe and both Americas are continually passing through the place, to and from the famous St. Gotthard. More than 100,000 visitors were entertained in Lucerne each year in normal times, and, though a place of only 40,000 population, it possesses 70 hotels, many of them as pretentious as those to be found in New York and Paris. "Mountains wall the city, save where the wall is broken through by the torrent of the Reuse, which drains Lucerne Lake. The Pilatus range, Rigi, and the Alps of Uri and Engelberg frame the crystal waters at their feet. Lucerne is primarily a city of peace, because its support depends upon the good-will, the prosperity, and the leisure of nations productive and at peace with one another. The annual 100,000 visitors pay the running expenses of the place and furnish it with plenty of pocket money for incidental luxuries.

"Before the outbreak of the war, Lucerne was a resort patronized all the year round, by vacationists, those in search of winter sport, mountain climbers, by the infirm in need of bracing air and inspiring surroundings, and by the small army regularly bound for the passage of St. Gotthard's pass. The town, itself, is full of picturesque and historic values. The older part of the city is medieval, threaded by narrow, crooked streets and built up with ancient houses. Part of the old defenses are still standing, while the town-hall is a survival from the 16th century. In it, is now housed a museum rich in antiquities.

"Lucerne is conveniently situated for informal conferences between the warring nations, for it is neutral land almost in the heart of battle-torn Europe, and the only place equally accessible to all the larger combatants. In less than a day's time, representatives can gather here from London, Paris, Berlin, Rome and Vienna. More difficulty is in the way of the representatives sent from Petrograd, but, for all practical purposes, Lucerne is the placid center around which Europe's cyclonic storms of war are raging in widening circles. As the hub of trouble and destruction, it is a fitting point from which to send out the suggestions of peace and reconstruction."

LUTHERAN AID SOCIETY WILL HOLD SUPPER

The annual oyster supper of the Ladies Aid society of the Lutheran church will be held Friday, November 19 from 5 to 8 o'clock in the newly renovated basement of the church. This is the first supper that has been held since the basement has been improved and a good attendance is desired.

A much needed improvement in the basement was the installation of a modern kitchen, which is now under construction. The kitchen is about 20 feet in width and extends the whole width of the basement and contains all the latest accessories of a modern kitchen. It is built in such a manner as to insure quick service to the patrons and also make serving easier. New lighting and heating apparatus has also been installed which will make the room more comfortable.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

JOE HILL, I. W. W. POET TO BE SHOT FRIDAY MORNING

Agitation Launched To Save Condemned Man--Lives And Property Threatened

Date of Execution Postponed From October 1 on Account of Request of President Wilson--Board of Pardon Refuse Commutation of Sentence.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 17.—Joseph Hillstrom—better known as Joe Hill, the I. W. W. poet—will face a firing squad at the penitentiary here early Friday morning. The popular impression prevails here that there is little or no chance for the success of the efforts being made to secure a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment or at least a postponement of the execution. At the penitentiary arrangements are already being made to carry the sentence into effect. The law of Utah gives a condemned murderer the choice between hanging or shooting as the method of execution. Hill chose shooting and in consequence he will meet death at the hands of six expert riflemen. The guns of three of the six will be loaded with ball cartridges and the other three with blank cartridges. In this manner none of the six will have an exact knowledge as to who are the real executioners.

The case of Hill has already attracted nation-wide attention. He was convicted of the murder of J. G. Morrison and Morrison's son on Jan. 10, 1914. The murders were committed, according to the evidence in the case, while Hill was in the act of robbing the Morrison grocery store.

Hill's case did not attract more than ordinary attention until efforts were launched to save him from execution by the Industrial Workers of the World, of which organization he had been a prominent member. The agitation to save the condemned man has included many threats against lives and property in Salt Lake City. On the eve of the first date set for execution—October 1—a large force of police in plain clothes and private detectives guarded public buildings and many homes as a result of anonymous threats to destroy property unless Hill was reprieved. For days incoming trains were watched and itinerants numbering more than fifty a day were arrested and given the alternative of leaving the city or going to jail. The same precautions, it is understood, are again being taken by the authorities on the eve of the execution.

Hill is a native of Sweden and it was through the intercessions of the Swedish minister at Washington that he secured his first reprieve. On the eve of the date fixed for the execution President Wilson, at the request of the Swedish minister, telegraphed Gov. Spry a request for a delay pending a further investigation of the case. The governor granted the request. At the end of the respite period Hill's application for commutation of sentence was denied by the Board of Pardon and he was sentenced to be executed next Friday.

The Industrial Workers of the World, who have led the agitation in behalf of the condemned man, claim that the evidence on which he was convicted was not convincing. They claim that there was no positive identification of him as the murderer. It is further asserted by the I. W. W. that Hill would not have been likely to have attempted robbery as he had just come from the mine with $350 in his possession.

The victims of the double murder had fired upon their assailant before giving up their lives. The most damaging evidence against Hill was the fact that when arrested he had a bullet wound in his chest. At the trial of the case he declared that he would not explain how he received this wound, because to do that he would have to bring into the case the name of a prominent mine owner of Salt Lake.

Gov. Spry's letter to President Wilson, following the request for a respite, tells the other side of the story. In this letter Gov. Spry wrote:

"The undisputed records of the Hillstrom case show that he was convicted of a most revolting murder, that the evidence shows his guilt, and that he had a fair trial. His case has been more thoroughly investigated by the Board of Pardon, consisting of the three Supreme Court Judges, the Attorney General and the Governor, than any similar case in the history of the state. We have found no reason whatever why clemency should be extended."

Popular feeling in Salt Lake City is that the I. W. W. and others who are trying to save Hillstrom will not be able to prove before Friday that he is guilty only of a chivalrous martyrdom in protecting the reputation of a woman.

Expert Advice For
Auto Owners

CURWENSVILLE

When I open the throttle suddenly the motor seems to fire badly and comes to a stop. What is the matter?

You are feeding too much gasoline, which is drawn into the cylinders in an undivided state and is not readily explosive, thus causing the engine to miss and choke. If you will adjust your carburetor so that a greater proportion of air is mixed with the gasoline you will have no further trouble of this character.

What is the proper way to align the wheels of an automobile?

The proper method to align the wheels of an automobile is as follows: At the same distance above the ground as the center of the hub the measurement is taken across the width of the spread of the two front wheels from the inner side of the rims of each. When this measurement has been carefully checked the wheels are rotated to different positions and measurements taken at the same height. They should always be the same. When the wheels have been found to be true, as far as this measurement is concerned, similar measurements are made at the rear of the wheel. The distance across the wheels at the rear will be slightly larger than in front on account of the toe-in generally allowed. This amounts to one-fourth inch as a rule.

What effect does the practice of using the motor as a brake coming down a hill have on the mechanism of an automobile?

The use of the motor as a brake is generally conceded to have a more or less deleterious effect on the gears. The power through the gears is reversed since the car is now tending to drive the motor. Thus instead of having the step down reduction we have a step up, with consequently more surface pressure on the teeth, and hence more abrasion.

What per cent of grade, paved with asphalt, should a car which weighs 3,000 pounds with passengers be able to climb on high?

The car should be able to take a short hill of 12 per cent on high gear, but on a long hill a 7 or 8 per cent grade would be the maximum.

How many miles should a car run before the engine main bearings need adjustment?

You should be able to run the car an average of 10,000 miles before the main bearings need adjustment, but if you have driven improperly with spark advanced too far, for instance, or attempted to take every hill on high gear and put various other things with the engine which put extra strain on the crank shaft and bearings, it will sometimes happen that a set of bearings will wear out in 2,000 miles.

My car heats up considerably—in fact, in a very short time it gets so hot that I have to leave it. Is there anything I can do to the car, and on moderate driving it will heat up? I would like to know whether there is anything that I could do to stop the heating up?

At some times the motor and parts must have become so hot that the inside surface of the radiator hose collapsed, and this undoubtedly is obstructing the passage of water on the way.

It is suggested, therefore, that you remove the radiator hoses and examine them, and if necessary, install new ones, being sure that they are not kinked.

There is also a possibility of the radiator cells having become partially clogged on account of the sediment which was undoubtedly distributed to the cells by the steam generated. This might have clogged the cells. If this is the case the radiator should be filled with water, then draw off about one quart and dissolve in this the maximum of concentrated lye which the water will carry. This should be poured into the radiator and the motor run for several moments until the cooling system has become thoroughly heated. The water is then drained off and thoroughly flushed out with several fillings of fresh water, care being taken not to get any of the water in which the lye is dissolved on external parts.

At low speeds there is a grinding sound in my rear axle, seemingly caused by the gears. How can this be remedied?

The cause is probably a poor adjustment between the bevel drive pinion and the crown gear, and this can be remedied by simply adjusting the mesh between these gears. This adjustment can be made by removing the small hand hole plate located at the rear end of the propeller shaft housing and by turning a screw adjustment on the inside to the right or left to secure a tighter or looser adjustment of the bevel pinion as desired.

Is it good practice to lap in pistons, using ground glass or nonmagnetic valve grinding compound?

Grinding compound is too coarse an abrasive for use in piston lapping. Ground glass mixed with a solution of kerosene and lubricating oil is better.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving and Some Clearfield People Know How to Save It

Many Clearfield people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Clearfield citizen's recommendation.

Levis Kelly, 904 S. Fourth street, Clearfield says: "I know from experience that Doan's Kidney pills are a medicine of merit. I used them for backache and kidney weakness and got relief. Some time later I again used Doan's Kidney pills and they relieved lameness in my back and regulated the action of my kidneys." Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kelly had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back its Lustre and Abundance

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound." Thousands of folks recognize this ready-to-use preparation because it darkens the hair, beautifies and removes dandruff, itching and itching scalp.

Apply it to naturally thinning hair. It restores a sponge or soft hair, applying this through the hair, drawing one small strand of hair, and morning the gray hair disappears after another application. The natural color is restored and a permanent, glossy and business and you appear years younger.

Clearfield R. F. D. No. 2

Good evening! Are you getting ready to be thankful?

We see a Paradise resident has "Old Glory" floating over his pigpen; he must be one of the hyphenated kind of Americans.

No, Cleo, don't think it is for style that men put pants on their hunting dogs; neither is it new, as we know of men who have been doing it for years; and if those who don't, could only be stripped naked and be made to run through the brush, briars and thorns a few hours they would soon get something on their dogs to protect them.

Game evidently is scarce as we have seen dozens of hunters and to date have seen a pheasant and a squirrel that had been bogged.

We got that long-delayed piece of pumpkin pie a few days ago.

Mans Read has just threshed his wheat; had about 230 bushels. Still has his oats and barley to thresh.

Rev. Long started revival services at Mt. Joy church on Sunday evening; meetings every night for at least two weeks.

Rev. LePage is also conducting a revival service in the Goshen church; commenced on the 7th. Rev. J. E. Gearhart preached for him last Sunday at 10:30, as he had to be on a different part of the circuit, and the writer did his best in the evening; James Knight was with us and led the singing and we had an enthusiastic and, we hope, profitable meeting.

Editor Progress: It seems to good to be true that there is at last a place in Clearfield for a tired woman to rest and get lunch without feeling they are not wanted there. The rest room and lunch are fine and makes we out-of-town women want to go to Clearfield to do our shopping. It has already cheated the city department stores out of a big order from me and there will be more to follow. I should like to send a contribution, if I knew where to send it. You were kind enough to print my letters wanting a rest room, perhaps you will be kind enough to tell us where we could send or leave money for it.

Keep Your Name In Print.

By BREEN.

A certain wise man once said: "Keep your name in print. Have something nice said about you, if possible. But—keep your name in print."

The man who said this was unwittingly an advertising genius. He knew the value of advertising.

The power of advertising cannot be measured. It is tremendous. Successful men and men who are trying to become successful are giving it more attention than ever.

Have you given advertising the attention it deserves? If you haven't, get busy.

Christmas Shopping

By J. A. COLEMAN.

The above slogan in the hands of an astute business man, changed the whole practice of Christmas shopping and stimulated holiday business as nothing else could have done. This man, with the nerve of a Barnum and the judgement of a Wanamaker, grabbed the thought from the public mind and put it into big Black Type where "He who runs may read"—in the newspaper! He backed a popular conviction with his coin and advertised the universal belief that it would be better for everyone concerned if the inevitable Christmas purchases were made at once while stocks were fresh and new and the choice was wide and ample.

The result not only paid the advertiser as it always does—but the whole country profited beside.

This slogan has since slipped into practical use in every corner of commercial America. Excepting perhaps its fellow slogan, "Safety First," which reduced the accident death rate enormously, it has done more good in the world than any business phrase ever coined. It has been the means of discontinuing the time honored practice among large metropolitan department and specialty stores of keeping open in the evening a week or two preceding Christmas Eve. It has enabled manufacturers to prepare their goods and fill orders far enough in advance to insure clear store rooms long before the Yuletide candles were lighted. It prevented the disappointment of millions of Christmas shoppers who were wont in times past to wait for the more attractive novelties which turned up at the last moment. And not the least important, it saved the heartaches of neglected ones who leant upon the broken reed of mere man's thoughtlessness.

That phrase, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," was instantly taken up and flashed before the eyes of the world through the medium of its newspaper. Just as every other worth while thing is told this nation of readers by the ever present, constant, reliable, all-knowing morning, evening, weekly or Sunday newspaper. Nothing the world does is done without ITS knowledge, nothing you want the world to know can be made known without its aid. Almost any national manufacturer will tell you that most of his fame and profit were the product of newspaper advertising. No newspaper advertiser who kept it up wisely ever lost money.

The newspaper pays the advertiser. The latter merely invests in business publicity. The cost of advertising is like a phantom Zeppelin—it never lights anywhere. It is a bugaboo made of thin air and a yellow streak. The common supposition that advertising expense is levied upon the consumer is likewise a fallacy. The fact of the matter is that the non-advertiser pays for it out of the business he loses to competitors who do advertise.

Advertising doubles output, halves overhead, divides selling cost and, by making two customers buy where ONLY ONE BOUGHT BEFORE, it creates a hundred per cent. increase in profit—out of which any business man can afford to pay for his own advertising.

MORAL FOR MERCHANTS: Advertise in the Progress and do your Christmas Business early.

Congressman Morgan Writes Book On "Land Credits or A Plea For The Farmers"

Object of New Law Should be to Obtain Adequate Credit and Low Rate of Interest for Farmers—New Law Authorizes Banks to do Business With Insufficient Capital.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Congressman Dick T. Morgan, of Oklahoma, has written a book entitled, "Land Credits; a Plea for the American Farmer," which will be issued in a few days from the press of Thomas Y. Crowell company, New York.

In this work, the Oklahoma congressman vigorously condemns the system of private, profit-sharing land banks recommended by the commission which went abroad to study rural credits, and by the sub-committees of the two houses of congress on rural

Advertise in The Progress.

Advertising Surely Pays.

By BREEN.

The biggest business enterprises in this country were built upon advertising. None will deny that. Newspaper advertising is the most potent of all. The money that is spent annually in the newspapers of the United States is enormous.

Enormous as it is, the return is tenfold. And yet one occasionally will find some self sufficient business man who will declare he doesn't need advertising.

Every man in every business needs advertising. Some need it more than others. It is nonsense to say that a certain article sells itself.

FERNS SHOULD BE PLACED IN STRONG SUNLIGHT

Washington, Nov. 17.—(By United Press.)—Housewives who obtain ferns from the florist for indoor culture should place them in a strong light, although they will do well without sunlight. They should be kept moist at all times, but watered sparingly. Most fern difficulties arise either from keeping the plants soaked or permitting them to get too dry. When the fern is in a jardiniere, it is especially difficult to avoid over-watering. In spring and summer, ferns require three times the amount of water that they do in the fall and winter.
